1. Summary

Glass is for sure a fascinating material. It is used in many projects of our practice for a long time. The talk will give an inside on what was done (including some latest projects) and what are the subjects we want to think about in the future. Since this approach has to do with cooperation as well as interdisciplinary thinking some aspects of this general ideas will be shared. Synergies can be found in many aspects of what was developed during recent years. Some of these will be highlighted.
